I am a Research Fellow at the European University Institute within the framework of the SOLID project led by Prof. Hanspeter Kriesi. My current work focuses on collective mobilization, public opinion, and party competition dynamics for the study of the multiple crises that have hit the EU since 2008. My broader research interests include political behavior, political participation and mobilization, political representation, and public opinion formation. Beyond my substantive interests, a lot of my work also focuses on research methodology and methodological development with a pluralist outlook. I work with text as data solutions for semi-automated protest event analysis, surveys and survey experiments, and I develop analytic protocols and software for QCA.
